A Day in the Life

It's late evening. A red fox leaves its den to hunt. It trots along, sniffing as it goes. When it smells food, it stops to dig. There are three turtle eggs. It eats them in three gulps.

The fox moves on. At a field, it stops to listen. A faint rustle comes from the grass.

Catch!

One of the fox's large ears turns toward the sound. This turning helps the fox know where prey is hiding. The fox walks slowly toward the sound.

Close to the sound, the fox stops. It raises its front legs off the ground and jumps up. It pounces on a mouse. With one swallow, the mouse is gone.
