A Day in the Life

An orangutan walks along the forest floor. The animal stops near a log. It grabs a stick and pokes it into the log. Then the orangutan pulls the stick out. It's covered in honey. Yum! Time for a treat.

honey: a thick, sweet substance made by bees

Smart Animals

Orangutans are smart animals. Their hands and feet grab like human hands. Grabbing lets them use sticks as tools. These animals have long arms. They use them to swing through trees.
