A Day in the Life

Ring-tailed lemurs climb through leafy trees. They leap from branch to branch. They're looking for bugs. They eat any they find. The lemurs then drop to the ground. They stretch out. It's time to sunbathe.

sunbathe: to sit or lie in the sun's light

Long Tails

Ring-tailed lemurs spend a lot of time in trees. Their long tails help them balance. Their name comes from the tails' rings.
